

What Can Stewardship Matters Offer?

Rev. David A. Rash

Here are some of the ways I can offer help:

- Local church stewardship education that gives insight into best practices
- Preaching on stewardship, emphasizing generosity as our response to God's love, as pulpit supply or occasional emphasis
- Directing stewardship campaigns as the outside resource leader and presenting options for such campaigns and for helping to create a culture of generosity
- Share the basics of seven stewardship programs
- Planned Giving talks to groups in the church or in worship/preaching (a vital missing piece in our churches)
- How to structure wills and estate gifts to maximize their effectiveness
- Ways of Giving (online, generational differences, making best use of liturgical seasons, occasional letters and appeals, speaking to inactive members, one to one presentations)
- Finance/Stewardship Committee training, helping to bring new insights to the financial picture
- Endowments: How to get started and how to maintain an endowment fund
- Capital funds campaigns for small to mid-sized churches
- Workshops for district training events and/or clergy meetings
- Preparing a detailed analysis of all financial aspects of your church by analyzing giving and spending practices over the last few years, with a report to the church